

The International Biogeography Society

2007 Conference Update

Dear Members,

We are excited to report that the 2007 biennial conference of the International Biogeography Society will be held in Tenerife, the Canary Islands, in early January. IBS board members are working hard to finalize the conference dates, schedule and logistics. Please look for these details in the Summer Newsletter, to be released in June.

At this time we invite members to submit symposia proposals for the 2007 meeting. Please send a one-page description of the proposed symposium and a list of five potential speakers to Michael Douglas: michael.douglas@colostate.edu. Symposium topics will be decided on by a vote of the Board.

Conference center

View from nearby hotel

Anaga Peninsular, Tenerife

Tenerife Island